Campbell promoted to Design and Construction Director post

(ANCHORAGE, Alaska) – The Department of Transportation and Public Facilities Central Region Director, Gordon Keith, recently named Rob Campbell as the region's new Director of Design and Construction.

Campbell has been with the department since 1982 and replaces Steve Horn, who recently retired.

"I'm real happy to have a person of Rob's caliber fill this critical position," said Regional Director Keith. "Rob's depth of experience with the department has prepared him well to step right in and hit the ground running."

Campbell's experience with the department has included work as a design engineer, project manager, and as Chief of the Preliminary Design and Environmental section. Most recently, Rob was the Preconstruction Engineer for the region, responsible for delivering bid-ready plans and specifications for construction of the region's highway and aviation projects.

In his new capacity, Campbell is responsible for delivering a $200 million annual program of highway and airport projects, starting from initial environmental reviews through completion of construction. Campbell will oversee a staff of 370 people who provide supervision and technical oversight for project design and construction and related activities. Campbell is also the region's primary contact for interagency coordination.

Campbell received his Bachelor of Science degree in civil engineering from Oregon State University in 1982, and his graduate degree in Engineering Management from the University of Alaska in 1997. He is a registered professional engineer, a certified project management professional, and a member of the national American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials Subcommittee on design.
